IELTS Up Words!

Lesson 19: Farming

Farming

Hello, you are listening to the nineteenth lesson of IELTS Up Words! I am Yasi, your mentor fromLingemy.com.

Remember what we talked about in the previous lesson? Did you learn all the new words? You have been introduced to dozens of new words so far. So, don't let them pile up and use them instead. How? For example, if you are reviewing family vocabulary, google "IELTS speaking questions on family." This way, you will find a lot of questions with which to practice. Read the questions and make a determined effort to use the words you have learned in your answer. Don't think of it as an uphill struggle, though. After using the words and practicing for some time, you will reap the rewards of your efforts. I promise you will score high.

Now, let's get to today's question which is about farming. Ready?

Is agriculture a big part of the economy in your country?

Yes! It is one of the biggest industries in my country. Farmers make up a large percentage of the population here, and this is mostly because of the vast expanse of fertile soil that we have. Moreover, many people choose farming as their job since they are paid subsidies by the government, which is a huge help in terms of harvesting crops and purchasing pesticides.

Speaking Tip

The Ten-Word Rule

As you have noticed, I am using a lot of advanced words in every topic of this course. You might think that you can't speak or write like this, but don't worry. You don't need to use a lot of new words and vocabulary to score a band 7 or 7.5 in the speaking test. All you need is ten words for each topic! That is right! If you know how to use ten words for every topic perfectly well, your vocabulary will be good enough for a high score in the speaking test.
