Lesson 21: Life on Other Planets

Life on Other Planets

This could mean the end of life as we know it.

Welcome! Woohoo! You are here for lesson twenty-one? Wow! You have gotten so far with this course! Congratulations! I am so proud of you! I knew you could do it! Now you truly deserve a standing ovation! You are definitely going to achieve big things in this new world! Not just because you are going to score high in IELTS, but also because you have proved yourself to be capable of learning something online! Life as we know it is soon going to end and the future is for those who are good with technology—the technophiles.

Now let's move on to the topic of today's lesson: life on other planets. I am going to talk about it a little bit and then I want you to tell me what you think.

Ready?

I think that humankind is going to live on other planets in the not too distant future for various reasons. First, due to the destructive human activity, it is becoming increasingly difficult for Earth to sustain life; and second, the human population is growing very quickly and sooner than later we will run out of enough space for everyone, so, it is inevitable to find another home. However, I don't think we have a high chance of finding a home in our Solar System since there are no habitable planets in it. Mars, Jupiter, Mercury, Saturn; they are all either too hot or too cold to live on. Therefore, I think we should look elsewhere in the Milky Way Galaxy. What do you think? Do you agree?

Speaking Tip

The One-Minute Speaking Game

Now as for the final part of this lesson, I want to introduce a fun activity that you can do to help you with your speaking. It is called the one-minute speaking game.

To play this game, you need a few cards, and on each card, you should write a word that indicates a broad term. For example, you can write “family” on one of the cards; it is a broad term and can include many subjects.

After preparing the cards, turn them around so that you won’t see what word is written on each one. Then, pick one of the cards and set a timer to speak for one minute straight about that word. You can say anything that is related to the word. The point here is to activate your topic-related words as much as possible and train your brain to think of ideas quickly. You can also play this game with a friend for better results.
