IELTS Up Words!

Lesson 40: Art

Hello there! Are you ready for another lesson? I know you are! In this lesson, we are going to talk about different forms of art! Which forms of art? Films, plays, and paintings! Did you know that film is the most advanced form of art so far created by man? It not only involves visual images (which is the classic term for what "art" actually meant) but also sound and movement.

So, now, I am going to pose three questions—each about one of the art forms that I mentioned. Ready?

What was the first film that you watched?

I am not completely sure, but I guess it was an Iranian film called Shokaran.

It came out first about two decades ago, and I went to a movie theater with my mom on the opening night to see it. I remember movie critics raving about it, but since I was very young, I couldn't really wrap my head around what they were saying. Later, that movie got nominated for an award and was critically acclaimed. I did not like it, though, I preferred something more gripping back then—something that would keep me on the edge of my seat.

Do you like theatrical performances?

Yes. I absolutely adore them! There is a thrill in seeing live actors who are performing for an audience! Plays are hardly about clichés or shallow like many movies. And you can expect to see some top-notch performance by masterful actors. I think mediocre actors can't really make it in the theater as you need to have stage presence.

Do you have paintings at home for decoration?

Yes, I do! My mom is actually an amateur painter, which means that she has turned our home into a little art exhibit! Unlike me, she abhors abstract paintings and mostly draws still life and landscape.

Tip: You are likely to encounter an art-related topic in your exam, so make a list of different forms of art and what you like or dislike about each.
